

Wine Spectator

February 28, 2001

“Those who still think of California wines mostly in terms of Cabernet and Chardonnay are missing a much bigger and exciting picture. The Rhône-style reds...are making an impact and creating a strong presence.”

TABLAS
CREEK VINEYARD

ROUGE 1998

“Nice crisp structure to the ripe black cherry, plum, white pepper and wild berry flavors, turning firmly tannic, showing its muscle on the finish. Drink now through 2006.” 88

